Neuro Resource Group (NRG) Names New President & CEO

Dallas, Texas – Neuro Resource Group (NRG), the Plano-based manufacturer of InterX® products, today announced the appointment of Sean E. Browne to the position of President and CEO. Browne is the former President of Miltex Surgical Instruments, a division of Integra LifeSciences of Plainsboro, NJ, a leading provider of surgical instruments to the alternate site marketplace. Browne replaces David O. Turner, who was serving as interim CEO following the retirement of NRG founder Tommy Thompson.

In addition to his role as President with Miltex, Browne served as an officer on the boards of both the GmbH business unit and the core Miltex business. Prior to serving as President, Browne was Executive Vice President responsible for the world-wide sales and marketing of Miltex's complete product line.

Prior to joining Miltex, Browne served as Vice President of Sales and Marketing and was the first non-founder senior manager at Esurg Corporation, a provider of medical supplies, pharmaceutical supplies and office supplies for physicians' offices. Prior to Esurg, Mr. Browne served as the Sr. Vice President of the Health Systems division of McKesson Healthcare's Pharmaceutical division. Prior to McKesson, Browne served nine years with Baxter Healthcare in a number of capacities including Sales Representative, National Sales Manager of the Hospital Supply Division, Director of Marketing, and Vice President of Sales for the Dietary Products Division.

Browne received his Bachelor of Science degree from Boston University, majoring in Finance. While at Boston University, he played football on a full athletic scholarship. In 1996, he received his Masters of Management from Northwestern's Kellogg School of Management with a concentration in Strategy and Marketing. He is happily married with four children and will be relocating to North Texas before the end of the year.
